About Excelerate

Excelerate is a leadership and communication incubator that develops confident, strategic leaders and teams that build inspiring cultures and deliver profitable results.

Everything we do at Excelerate revolves around one goal: to help people unleash the power that they have to lead. People are amazingly talented, and yet for so many, it's undiscovered, untapped, unappreciated potential. We are here to change that.

About Our Founder, Kimberly Gerber

As the Founder and CEO of Excelerate, Kimberly Gerber has developed a transformational coaching process that combines high-touch experiences with cutting-edge science and technology to deliver programs that accelerate the thinking, behavior and results of our clients and the companies they lead.

Prior to founding Excelerate in 2002, Kimberly was a Fortune 100 executive herself. She understands the unique responsibilities that come at the executive level and has created programs like the Executive Accelerator to help executives think strategically, elevate their presence, finesse their communication, achieve their goals and provide sustainable business results in a productive environment.
